NAME

Karl Heinz MAREBACH []

DPOB

5 July 1917, Kolberg, Germany

FAMILY

Subject was divorced in 1948 and in 1949 married

Renate nee Lengnick.

NAME	L. CASSOCK-1 (formerly CADRIER) C 3 Biographic information--under separate cover
LANGUAGES	Speaks fair English; reads it well (1951)
CAREER:
1937-1948	U-Boat commander. Became a POW of the French in 1948.
1948-1960	Journalist (see comments)
COMMENTS:	In July 1951 Subject was granted an OA. From 1948 to December 1960 Subject engaged in WOFACT-sponsored propaganda operations directed primarily against the GDR. Subject was not witting of WOFACT sponsorship until 1954. In 1954 Subject was accused by suspect RIS agent, Alfred FRIEDRICH, of being connected with the French Intelligence Service (FIS). The Station reported that although FRIEDRICH was considered an unreliable individual, there was considerable reason for believing that Subject was acting as Principal Agent for the FIS (or conceivably some other service) during much of 1949. After FRIEDRICH's arrest by the German authorities, he stated that Subject had offered him a fixed salary for furnishing information; that Subject was to pass him a false identification (given to Subject by a Frenchman known as Le Petit) for the purpose of entering the East Zone; that he and Subject had at one time shared a bottle of champagne together. Subject was interrogated and denied all of FRIEDRICH's accusations. In a subsequent interrogation per

of Subject, he amended his statements and stated that he and FRIEDRICH [REDACTED] had shared the ominous bottle of champagne (Subject's wife had reminded Subject of this event).

[REDACTED] In late 1958, Subject began to balk at black operations and began to show increasing dislike, both personally and operationally, for the C/O. Subject was given the choice of adhering to policy decisions regarding his project or quitting. In December 1958, since Subject was likely to become a disposal case, he was considered a free agent to work for whomever he desired. He was terminated in July 1960 "without prejudice".

A June 1960 report from ~~_____~~ ^{CATIDE} states that they had recently terminated its relationship with Subject amicably and gave the following reasons for his release:

After ~~_____~~ ^{CATIDE} [REDACTED] had given Subject a detailed cover story for his move to Berlin and

[REDACTED] instructed him not to admit his relationship with them to anyone, he [REDACTED] briefed in detail a number of his former Berlin colleagues, including his former secretary, concerning his new status. In the course of his duties for ~~_____~~ ^{CATIDE}, Subject developed a personal

[REDACTED] ^{CATIDE's} interest in one of [REDACTED] secretaries connected with another operational group. He was asked to terminate this relationship for security reasons. The secretary honored the request but Subject continued to make every effort to see her. For security reasons, ~~_____~~ ^{CATIDE} requested Subject to submit an official account of what he had learned about the secretary. He submitted a report indicating that he had learned practically nothing from or about her. In the meantime ~~_____~~ ^{CATIDE} requested the same information from the secretary and learned that Subject knew her true name, her home address, and also had picked up a fair amount of information about her cover unit and its activities. When confronted by

~~CATIDE~~

~~██████████~~, Subject admitted that he had withheld considerable information in submitting his report. It was the ~~██████████~~ open

of CATIDE'S

^ security people ~~██████████~~ that Subject had deliberately attempted to pump the secretary and then had concealed the amount of information he had been able to elicit from her. When ~~██████████~~ CATIDE put Subject on the carpet to discuss his basic attitudes, Subject claimed that he had no respect for people who made such an issue about security ~~██████████~~ and thought ~~██████████~~ their concern for security was carried to childish extremes, and that he had no intention of cramping his style by following their silly ~~██████████~~ rules and regulations.

Subject was described ~~██████████~~ by his WOFACT C/O as an ~~██████████~~ arrogant, bombastic and intellectually shallow person. He was a good coordinator of ideas initiated by others and had a wonderful flair for dramatizing these ideas, but he was by no means an original propaganda genius.
